

Electronic Delivery Consent

You agree to accept electronic delivery of the trade confirmations and account statements of your Tradier Brokerage, Inc. ("TBI") account and they will be sent to the email address you indicated on your account application. You understand that the confirmations and statements that will be emailed are essentially the same as a printed paper confirmation and statements that you would otherwise receive in the mail and that all material and required information will be reflected accordingly.

You agree to notify TBI in writing in the event you encounter difficulties viewing confirmations or statements on your account or receiving emails at the email address you indicated on your account application or, if within five (5) days you fail to receive a trade confirmation or statement and absent any such notification, the confirmation(s) and statement(s) will be considered delivered whether or not they were actually received by you.

In addition, you agree to hold harmless, defend, and indemnify TBI, Apex Clearing and their respective agents and employees from any and all claims, losses, suits, or damages that may, in any manner, arise out of the transmission through the internet of your information, any inaccuracies contained in such information, any subsequent use of such information, whether authorized or unauthorized by intended or unintended recipient or your access to or use of information related to this agreement.
